To Whom It May Concern:

I wholeheartedly recommend Grant Jeffery for an instructional position in your district! Mr. Jeffery has been a member of our social studies department for several years now, and I consider him one of the top teachers in our district.

As a social studies teacher at Northwestern, Mr. Jeffery has been an indispensable member of our faculty who is well-loved by our teachers and students. He is a teacher-leader who collaborates in our Advanced Studies and Government PLCS, he is outgoing and willing to go the extra mile by offering to teach all content levels, he is reflective of his teaching strategies and always striving to improve, and he advocates for his students inside and out of the classroom. The most notable trait about Mr. Jeffery is that he is empathetic to his students' needs, and his students know that he will listen and work with them until they achieve mastery; I attribute this to his ability to form relationships with his students, and his awareness of his students' social-emotional learning needs.

Mr. Jeffery has my highest recommendation as a member of your social studies department. We, at Northwestern, regret he is leaving Rock Hill and we wish him the best of luck in Oregon. We would not hesitate to rehire Mr. Jeffery should he ever make his way back to South Carolina.

Please do not hesitate to call me with any questions.

Sincerely,

Jacqueline Persinski, Ed.D
Assistant Principal of Curriculum and Instruction
